Shizuoka University's Philosophy and Goals

Our Philosophy: “Freedom and Enlightenment & Creation of the Future”

Shizuoka University came into being after the integration of the former Shizuoka High School, Shizuoka First Normal School and Shizuoka Second Normal School, Shizuoka Normal School for Youth, and Hamamatsu Technical College (formerly Hamamatsu Technical High School) in 1949, followed by the absorption of Shizuoka Prefectural College of Agriculture in 1951. Prior to their integration, the university's predecessor institutions all had educational policies that placed importance on students' independence, reflecting the liberal social atmosphere that prevailed in Japan under the “Taisho democracy” of the Taisho period (1912–1926). Of these institutions, the Hamamatsu School of Technology in particular espoused a philosophy of “freedom and enlightenment”, conducting a form of education that avoided restricting students through exams or rewards and punishments, and instead placed them in an environment that was as free as possible, aiming to give full rein to students' talents by respecting each person's individuality.

This philosophy of freedom and enlightenment is essential not only for education, but also for original research based on unfettered, free thinking and for mutually enlightening collaboration with society; it should therefore be handed down from one era to the next. Shizuoka University's students and staff (faculty and administrators) recognize this, and continue to uphold the philosophy of “freedom and enlightenment” as a mainstay of our education, our research, and our collaboration with society, industry, and our peers overseas. Joining forces, our students and staff will take determined action to tackle local issues, as well as global issues, continually pursuing peace and happiness for humankind. In this way we will dedicate ourselves to the creation of the future—a future filled with hope.

Guided by its philosophy of “freedom and enlightenment, and creation of the future”, as defined above, Shizuoka University will continue contributing to the future of humankind and to the development of the local community by cultivating human resources through high-quality education and creative research. Its endeavors will be bolstered by respect and affection for the abundance of natural and cultural assets found in Shizuoka Prefecture, where the university is located.

The individuals we cultivate

We train high-tech engineers and researchers who gain in-depth knowledge of specialized disciplines and obtain a broad-based education that enables them to meet the needs and expectations of the community and international society.

Educational goals

The graduate school provides a T-style of education in which specialized courses and courses in relevant new emerging areas (the vertical bar of the T) are combined with broad-ranging general courses that enable students to better contribute and meet the needs of society (the cross bar of the T), while nurturing individuals who exhibit creative energy, self-solving ability, and communication skills.

The students we seek

The graduate school is looking to admit students

- who are passionately committed to the pursuit of new knowledge and truth in the natural sciences,
- who never give up and are self-motivated and challenged to address tough issues, and
- who demonstrate leadership coupled with a cooperative spirit under a variety of circumstances.

Required basic skills before entry

Qualified candidates for the Education Division of the Graduate School of Science and Technology have completed or are expected to complete a master's degree or a professional degree and have a scholastic aptitude equal to or higher than a master's degree. In the selection examination for general, working, and international students, applicants are given an achievement test and an oral exam regarding their master's thesis or research record, in addition to basic subjects related to the applicant's major in their previously completed graduate curriculum.

Through this selection process, applicants are assessed for their ability to perform doctoral-level study and research. The graduate school looks to admit students (1) who are passionately committed to the pursuit of new knowledge and truth in the natural sciences, (2) who never give up and are self-motivated to address tough issues, and (3) who demonstrate leadership coupled with a cooperative spirit under a variety of circumstances. ## 1. Admission Policy

Department of Nanovision Technology

A new research field will be created by uniting image science engineers and nanoscience researchers. The control of individual photons and electrons, a method based in nanoscience, will be introduced for the first time to the image sciences and will be called "Nanovision Science." The objective of creating this field will be to develop students who can contribute significantly to the industry advancement as engineers and researchers. Candidates will be assessed based on their abilities, academic achievement, and suitability, among other factors.

Department of Optoelectronics and Nanostructure Science

The aim of the department is to develop students' professional capabilities to innovate in future technologies and to participate in initiatives geared towards controlling material functions and interaction between photons and nanostructure materials, specifically relevant to expanding areas of industry such as the communication, measurement and chemical industries. This goal will be achieved through cultivating knowledge of fundamental sciences and practical application. Applicants are required to demonstrate their ability, scholarship and aptitude for achievement.

Department of Information Science and Technology

With a foundation in informatics, engineering and basic sciences, the Department of Information Science and Technology aims to educate specialized researchers to develop novel basic information technologies and advanced engineers of information systems with outstanding skills in information techniques. Applicants are assessed based on their academic ability.

Department of Environment and Energy Systems

This department specializes in applying basic principles and equations regarding water, air, and solid and hazardous wastes; material and energy balances; and chemical and biogeochemical cycles to solve environmental issues. Topics include synthesis courses about water treatment, environmental change and biogeochemical cycles, analysis of ecosystems, geomicrobiology, CO<sub>2</sub> sequestration, and environmental legislation. Our goal is to support innovative science and technology through lectures and discussions that connect a broad range of scientific and engineering topics.

Department of Biosciences

The department provides education and training to the students by conducting frontier studies in basic bioscience and biotechnology, including cell biology, developmental biology, integrative biology, biophysics, microbiology, genomics, biotechnology, bioorganic chemistry, food science, and bioinformatics. Students are expected to take initiative in academia and scientific research and to bring an entrepreneurial drive to new bioindustrial fields.
